

Argyll Weekend 5th – 7th October 2018

The Argyll Scottish Dancing Group will once again be holding their weekend at Dillington House, Ilminster, Somerset. This year the dates are Friday 5th to Sunday 7th October 2018.

Our teacher for 2018 will be Dave Hall and our class musician is Robert Mackay. The course is suitable for those who already have a good working knowledge of common steps and formations in Scottish Country Dancing but we regret it is not suitable for beginners. This weekend will give you an opportunity to improve your technique, learn new dances and enjoy all social aspects of Scottish Country Dancing.

The weekend commences with introductions and dinner on Friday and includes social dancing on Friday and Saturday evening to recorded music. Each morning there are two classes and these will include technique and the finer points of steps and formations in dances old and new. During Saturday afternoon there will be an optional workshop or you could take the opportunity to relax in the grounds of the house or explore the nearby town of Ilminster. The course finishes after lunch on Sunday.

Our venue, Dillington House, was founded in 1949 as Somerset's residential centre for adult education and offers a unique creative learning environment for personal and professional development.

Over recent years Dillington has been substantially refurbished to provide very high quality comfortable accommodation across three separate buildings. The accommodation is in en-suite bedrooms from the grand to the quaintly snug, from the traditional to the stylishly modern.

The food is excellent and the premises are fully licensed with the bar open prior to meals and each evening after the dancing. We would kindly request that parties are kept to the bar and public rooms.

This year we have negotiated a change to the pricing structure and only the Lord North suite is designated as deluxe and carries an additional upgrade surcharge of £25 per person per night.
